From:	Weston, Josh (CORP) <Josh.Weston@adp.com>
To:	Weston, Josh (CORP) <Josh.Weston@adp.com>
CC:
Date:	Tue, 1/5/2016 8:26:55 PM
Subject:	FW: My 2016 New Year's wishes. It's time

Greetings:

You may recall from past years that I prefer an early January New Year greeting (versus the clogged mails of December). It now is January, so here I am.
As in the past, I value our friendship, and look forward to our continuing relationship, although it is generally too infrequent.

I hope that 2016 is a happy, healthy, productive year for you. It is also most timely to hope even more that the millions of terrorized and displaced persons fare much better in 2016….with more generosity from the lucky wealthy countries that have not been subjected to the terrorist scourges.

With warmth and best wishes. See below. JOSH

# # #

I CAN'T CLOSE THIS EMAIL WITH SUCH A SHORT MESSAGE, so here is an unrelated Weston addendum that may interest you.

I often contemplate this: We each began as a single tiny cell, not visible to the eye. In that "speck", there was an even smaller "sub-speck", called DNA instructions for everything to follow.
Those DNA instructions created our trillion cell human body, including its' especially mysterious human brain…which does so very very many things, with many millions of internal messages per second, even when we sleep.

As every new cell gets created, it contains an extremely accurate copy of our original DNA sub-speck….telling each new cell what to be, where to go, what to do, when to make more copies of itself (or a modified versions), and when to die.

All of the above is inexplicable, but my inexplicable brain refuses to stop contemplating this phenomenon. And similar DNA behavior occurs in MILLIONS of other species, over millions of years.

How little we know about nature, and who is "in charge" of all this.

Josh Weston, Honorary Chairman
Automatic Data Processing Inc.
1 ADP Blvd. Roseland, NJ 07068
973-974-5828
Josh.Weston@adp.com

This message and any attachments are intended only for the use of the addressee and may contain information that is privileged and confidential. If the reader of the message is not the intended recipient or an authorized representative of the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination of this communication is strictly prohibited. If you have received this communication in error, notify the sender immediately by return email and delete the message and any attachments from your system.